

Team South-

“We are not only renewing membership cards. We are transferring a legacy from one generation to the next.”

At the heart of the American Legion Family is a veteran whose service made everything else possible.

That service becomes a story shared with a spouse, a son or daughter, a grandchild, and someday perhaps a great-grandchild. Through The American Legion, American Legion Auxiliary, Sons of The American Legion, and American Legion Riders, that family legacy becomes something more—it becomes continued service.

Every part of our American Legion Family has its own identity and purpose, but we are strongest when we work together. Together, we honor veterans, support military families, mentor young people, strengthen our communities, and preserve the values of service and patriotism for future generations.

That is why promoting the entire American Legion Family is so important.

When we meet a veteran, we should welcome the veteran and introduce the opportunities available to eligible family members. When we meet a Legionnaire, Auxiliary member, or Son, we should ask whether other members of the family may also have a place within our organizations.

But our responsibility does not end when someone completes an application.

Tell new members the story behind our mission. Invite them to an activity. Introduce them to the people serving beside us. Help them discover how their time and talents can make a difference. Most importantly, remind them whose service their membership represents.

One veteran’s service can inspire generations of service—but only if we take the time to share the story, extend the invitation, and keep every generation connected.

Renew your commitment. Invite your family. Welcome another veteran. Mentor a new member. Serve together.

Because this is about far more than adding names to a roster.

It is about honoring those who served before us, serving those who need us today, and ensuring their legacy continues tomorrow.

One Family. One Mission. Generations of Service.
