

American Legion Child Welfare Foundation

The American Legion Child Welfare Foundation (CWF) was Established in 1954, to aid the betterment of kids in America. The First donor was American Legion Arkansas State Commander Dr. Garland Murphy, Jr. who donated 10,000 acres of oil-rich land in Montana and North Dakota. In return, Murphy asks that proceeds from the contribution be used solely to serve children.

Since then the CWF has given out over $17 Million to youth-oriented charities.

The Sons of The American Legion is the largest Contributor to the CWF
